Art Unit: 1755

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 27, line 1, replace "25" with -26--.

The above amendment merely corrects an obvious typographical error and does not materially affect the scope or meaning of the instant claims.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: US 3027342 comprises the closest prior art. A key difference between the patent and the instant product claims is the proportion of acrylonitrile-butadiene copolymer powder present. While the broadest disclosure of the patent can be manipulated to include compositions having a maximal amount of acrylonitrile-butadiene powder near 3%, there are not specific embodiments thereto and no teaching that would lead one of ordinary skill in the art to select compositions having the maximum possible acrylonitrile-butadiene powder amounts. The instant specification teaches at least 3% acrylonitrile-butadiene powder is required to obtain the desired elongation and tensile properties (See page 16, third paragraph). A key difference between the patent and the instant process claims is the temperature to which the mixture of coal tar and copolymer powder is heated. Column 3, lines 5-6 of the patent teach away from heating the mixture to greater than 315 F (157 C), while the instant claims require a temperature of at least 160 C.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
